Languages, Literatures, and Cultures

Languages, Literatures, and Cultures
The Department of Languages, Cultures, and International Trade offers a Master of Arts degree in Languages, Literatures, and Cultures with a concentration in either French or Spanish. The degree program includes courses in literature, linguistics, translation, pedagogy, and instructional technology, and allows for considerable breadth of study while offering a well-balanced degree plan.

Master of Arts (M.A.) in Languages, Literatures, and Cultures
This option allows students to complete the M.A. in Languages, Literatures, and Cultures in two years without having to take courses in the summer and/or without having to pursue a B.A. in our department (although students may choose to do either or both). Students must be accepted into the program prior to commencing coursework towards the degree:

- First Semester: 3 courses
- Second Semester: 3 courses
- Third Semester: 3 courses
- Fourth Semester: 2 courses; Comprehensive Examinations

Admission
A non-refundable application fee of $65 must be paid via credit card when applying through Hobsons Radius. In addition to meeting requirements of the Graduate School, the applicant for admission should have a Bachelor’s Degree with a major in the appropriate language of specialization or at least 18 credit hours (27 quarter hours) of relevant courses in the language at the junior-senior level. Students not meeting minimum requirements in coursework or in language proficiency may be given the option of taking additional coursework to make up the deficiency before being officially accepted to the program. These courses will not count towards fulfilling the degree requirements. Students who meet requirements for admission to the Graduate School but do not meet the departmental requirements may register as unclassified students for specific graduate courses in the department only with consent of the instructor and authorization from the Director of Graduate Studies.

General Requirements
Students must take 33 credit hours of coursework that must include:

- FL 436; FR 501 / SPAN 501; FR 570 / SPAN 570
- Four additional classes of literature/culture (for Spanish students, at least one of these courses must be in Latin American Literature, and at least one in Peninsular Literature). Spanish students are also required to take SPAN 511. A minimum of 18 credit hours must be taken at the 500 or 600 levels.
- Three credit hours of Independent Study will be given only under exceptional circumstances and will not duplicate available courses. The Director of Graduate Studies is responsible for authorizing such work in cooperation with the individual professor.

Comprehensive Examinations
The French comprehensive exams will be based on the courses taken. The Spanish comprehensive examinations will be based on the program reading list. While many of the works on the reading list will be covered in classes, others will not. Consequently, students are expected to exhibit a breadth of knowledge that goes beyond what is covered in their classes.

For more detailed information on the format of the exam, consult with the Director of Graduate Studies. Each year a faculty member from the M.A. in Languages, Literatures, and Cultures program will be in charge of the preparation, organization, scheduling, and proctoring of examinations.

Repeat Policy

Re-takes for failed examinations may be scheduled for the following: November, April, or August. Students will be given an entirely new exam. If the student does not pass the second time, they will be required to take an additional nine credit hours in Peninsular and Latin American literature/culture before being allowed to retake the exam for the third and last time.

NOTE: Students pass or fail the entire exam, not a single question or area. Students receiving a Graduate Assistantship who do not pass the exam the first time are not guaranteed additional funding.

Double Majors

Students may pursue a double major in Languages, Literatures, and Cultures together with an M.A. in another program. Consult “Double Major for a Master’s Degree” in the Degree Requirements section of this catalog for Graduate School requirements for double majors. In addition to meeting the Graduate School requirements, double majors must complete a minimum of 21 credit hours of coursework in the Department of Languages, Cultures, and International Trade, 18 of which must be in the language of study.

Curriculum Planning

Prior to registering, students are required to plan their curriculum with the Department’s Director of Graduate Studies who will advise the student in all matters pertaining to his/her M.A. in Languages, Literatures, and Cultures Program.

Pertaining to Courses

At least 15 credit hours of course work must be earned in courses at the 500-level or above, and a minimum of 21 credit hours of coursework must be taken in the language of study (18 credit hours for double majors). No more than half the credit applied toward fulfillment of the degree requirements may be transferred from other universities. A student has three calendar years to complete the degree and must remain registered in (FR 601 / SPAN 601 (Continuing Enrollment)) until the degree is completed.

Grades and Grade-Point Average

Any graduate student whose grade point average falls below 3.0 will be placed on academic probation. Any graduate student on academic probation whose grade point average remains below 3.0 for two consecutive semesters in which she or he is enrolled, excluding summer sessions, will be permanently suspended from the Graduate School, unless the department and the collegiate dean petition the graduate dean for an exception.

Catalog Year Statement:
Students starting their collegiate training during the period of time covered by this catalog (see bottom of this page) are subject to the curricular requirements as specified herein. The requirements herein will extend for a seven calendar-year period from the date of entry for baccalaureate programs and three years for associate programs. Should the University change the course requirements contained herein subsequently, students are assured that necessary adjustments will be made so that no additional time is required of them.
